

CERTIFIED RECEIVABLES COMPLIANCE PROFESSIONAL (CRCP)

TIMELINE

Research (1 Day)

Research the Receivables Management Certification Program CRCP designation, including the requirements and benefits.

Preparation and Education (1 Month+)

Take the required Introductory, Ethics, and DEI courses. (7 hours total)

Obtain an additional 17 credits (minimum) through live webinars, recorded webinars, or conference events. CCOs of a CRB or CRV must earn 12 credits from in-person education.

Note: This timeline is a rough estimate for obtaining certification through the RMAI Receivables Management Certification Program and may vary depending on the individual's education previously taken or time available to dedicate to taking courses. Engage with the RMAI Certification team to get on track (cert@rmaintl.org).

Application Submission (1 Month or less)

Complete and submit your application for certification to RMAI.

Provide any required documentation of education to support your application.

During this process, RMAI may request additional documentation and information to support your application depending on background report results.

Application Review

Your completed application will be submitted for review during the next Certification Council Administration & Budget Committee meeting. These meetings occur once per month. You will be notified of the results.

Maintenance and Renewal (Ongoing/Every Two Years)

To maintain your CRCP designation, you will need to earn 24 hours of continuing education every two years.

This includes attending live courses at RMAI Annual Conference and Executive Summit, RMAI webinars, or other courses through our authorized education providers.

You will also need to complete and submit your renewal application for certification to RMAI.
